

The N. Y. and Brooklyn Strands In Warm Competition to Excel in Evening World 'Orphan Party'

The Thousands of Crippled and Orphaned Children on Two Days Will See Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack" or Wesley Barry in "Penrod."

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock The Evening World's annual Christmas affair will be given at the New York Strand Theatre to thousands of children. The purpose of these annual entertainments is to "treat" as many kiddies as possible who rarely attend the theatre. Most of these children are crippled and the others come from orphan asylums. The crippled children will be carried, as usual, from the hospitals and homes to the theatres in buses.

"Dr. Jack," featuring Harold Lloyd, a five-reel comedy, will be the main picture. A telegram has been received from Harold Lloyd, in which he expressed his disappointment at not being able to come all the way from Los Angeles to make a "personal" appearance and highly commending The Evening World for the kindly interest it takes in these unfortunate children.

Included in this entertainment, besides the Harold Lloyd comedy, will be the Strand Male Quartet, singing the songs which have made its members so popular with children and their parents; also, some appropriate Yuletide specialties, a fantastic presentation by Walk Huhn, called "The Merry Riders," in which numerous comedians will disport themselves, and a selection of several educational films, both scenic and biological.

The management of the Strand makes the following statement to The Evening World:

"Both Moe Mark, President and General Manager of the Mark Strand Theatre and Joseph Plunkett, the managing director, are giving as much joy and pleasure from arranging and donating this program as the children will get from seeing it.

"We consider ourselves blessed because we have been able to do this perennially, and trust that a benevolent Providence will help us with the continuance of this work as long as the Mark Strand Theatre or any other of our institutions of entertainment exists."

The competition between the two theatres, the Brooklyn Strand and the New York Strand, each trying to surpass the other in the excellence of the entertainment, is interesting. Mr. Edward L. Hyman, managing director

REPULSED LOVER SLAYS THREE CHILDREN, SELF

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 26.—The Coroner's office to-day tried to learn something of the history of Emil Neuri, a ferryboat operator, who yesterday invaded the home of D. C. Engel, a woodworker, with three pistols just as the celebration of Christmas Day was starting, slew three of Engel's children and killed himself.

Helen Engel, sixteen-year-old sister of the victim, said that the forty-year-old slayer made love to her last spring, shot at her when she repelled his advances and afterward wrote letters threatening to kill her and her family.

House Dresses

Are Tastefully Simple in Style

VOILES, tissue ginghams, dainty striped batiste, linen checked gingham—the fabrics of the charming new house dresses we have just received. Every one is of that delightfully simple style that is so well adapted to this particular kind of frock. Long straight lines, crisp white collars and cuffs, loose sashes and everywhere the finest finishing touches that mark these dresses as belonging among those of finer quality.

A fine voile, for example, outlines neck, sleeves and belt with braided designs—and braid is the newest thing you know!

A checked tissue has trimmings of file lace. A dotted batiste is most effectively finished with long white surplice and cuffs to match.

They're the kind of dresses you like to wear around the house all the year through and they are most inexpensive at $5.50 to $14.75.
